

“Do You Remember”
Brandon Rhyder

Do you remember when you fell in love
The butterflies swimming around in your stomach
And how you would talk for hours without saying anything at all
How you'd run into a burning house, when everybody else was running out
To save the love that you thought you lost

Chorus:
Where did it go, when did it happen
What happened to happy ever after
Where frowns replace the pictures down the hall
Do you remember that day in your life
When you said I love you for the very first time
And nothing else mattered, nothing at all
Do you remember

Do you remember when you fell in love
The first night you made out under the stars
And how you'd look into each others eyes all through the night
How the time it would go so fast, it's amazing how fast an hour would pass
You couldn't wait to see each other again

Chorus:
So take that someone, with that special touch
And remember their very special touch
And ask yourself if you could live, if they were to leave
And never come back, never come back again
Again, again

Chorus:
